Help Center Previous explanatory notes The table of content below (as well as non -digital solutions) can play an important role to address the isolation and loneliness that are within rural communities. The report entitled: "More than digital: the planning of a hybrid world" cites the evidence provided by the Rural Services Network twice in the report: Digital inequality in rural communities. It is more likely that three groups of rural residents be digitally excluded than others. You can see a list of compatible browsers in our help center. The select committee of the Lords Covid Cover the following mandate: "The Covid-19 The pandemic has accelerated our dependence on the increasing dependence of digital technology. This research will analyze the long-term impact that this can have on our social and economic well-being and, in particular, in particular , in four key well -being promoters: physical health, mental health, social interaction and quality of working life. This can be aggravated by the lack of local facilities where people can meet and interact. We also use cookies established by other sites for help us deliver content of their services. The first group are those major residents who have not had the opportunity to acquire digital skills, although this is a group that is di di When in size ... charges ... the third group are the young people who continue to be the most isolated/lonely members of our communities in general and this is amplified more in the rural areas where there are Things that the young people do.
